"Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved." – Romans 10:1

This writer perceives a crucial aspect of our war on terrorism — that the terrorists are not going to go away. He commends President Bush for his ability to "concentrate on objectives for long periods without tiring." — Zola

ZOLA LEVITT

The "Bloody March to Peace"

By Tony Blankley, Creators Syndicate

President Bush continues to amaze, baffle and infuriate most of the Washington political class. Recently, he pronounced that "under my leadership America is more secure and peaceful ... the world is safer for having removed Saddam Hussein," even while the ambulances were still removing the dead and dying from suicide bombsites in Baghdad.

The president's claim of more security and peace only makes sense if one understands to what he is comparing the current condition. Presumably, if we hadn't invaded Iraq (and Afghanistan), things would be more peaceful right now. American soldiers wouldn't be dying on foreign soil, and there would be no explosions on the streets of Baghdad.

If we had let the UN quietly, politely, and ineffectively continue to complain to Mr. Hussein and the Taliban for their various misdeeds, the French, Germans and many Muslim governments would not now be saying rude things about America. We might even be admired around the world for our forbearance, restraint and maturity after that tragedy in New York and at the Pentagon.

The president's statement makes sense only if one believes that the terrorist danger will not go away, but rather will grow ever worse until it reaches a genocidal level of applied WMD weaponry against Americans here at home. In that case, every day we delay our effort to suppress and

The cartoonist makes a point we can all see clearly (except if we're US government officials). The president claims that our war is on terrorism, not Islam. The fact is, our war is on Islamic terrorism. There are no active terrorists of any other kind, and if there were, we would be at war with them. We were provoked by an act of war, by Islamic terrorists, and they are our enemy. As to the rest of the Muslims, the vast majority agree with the terrorists. They would like to see our overthrow, and would in fact like to see all of the Jews and all of the Americans dead. If that's not the enemy, I just don't know who is.

The State of the Ministry: A Monumental Expansion

By Mark Levitt

This ministry was ten years old when I came aboard as Executive Director. That was fifteen years ago. Nothing in our quarter-century of diligent effort magnified our outreach so suddenly as when we added two national television networks in the early '80s: ABC-FAMILY and TBN. (Please refer to our TV Airing Schedule on pages 18 - 23.)

In November, the PAX national television network began carrying Zola Levitt Presents on Thursday mornings at 9:30 on both coasts and 8:30 Central and Mountain time. For us, this is a major, major increase in both the number of people we teach and our monthly airtime bills. For those of you who don't know, extinguish terrorism at its heart in the Middle East, America and the world grow less secure and less full of peace.

It is in that sense that the president was correct yesterday. Having started the process of rolling back terrorism (however falteringly or imperfectly), we are more secure than if we had not yet started. On Sept. 12, and for some months thereafter, most Washington politicians and journalists shared with the president that sense of the danger and urgency. But with the passage of months, and now years, for many the very idea of a war on terrorism has become prosaic. It has become a mere cliché, an abstraction, a political phrase to be tossed off without thinking.

But it is not so for George Bush. For him, the terrorism menace is corporeal, ominous and imminent. If he is right — and almost every technical terrorism expert believes he is — I believe his obsessive, sustained focus on the danger is a sign of greatness.

When Napoleon was asked what distinguished a great leader from a regular politician, he explained that it was not innate intelligence, but rather the mental power "de fixer les objets longtemps sans être fatigué" (to concentrate on objectives for long periods without tiring). While most other politicians (certainly including most of the Democratic Party presidential aspirants) have long since tired of the mental and emotional strain of staring into the terrorism abyss, the president continues to focus and to act.

And he understands that the early rounds may be the hardest, because the terrorists and others still doubt America's staying power. They remember Vietnam, where we lost the will to fight. They remember Beirut in 1983, where we turned tail and ran after they killed our Marines in their barracks. They remember the first WTC bombing in 1993, when we turned to our lawyers instead of our soldiers.

They remember Mogadishu in 1996, where we left our dead and skedaddled out of the country. They remember the attack on the USS Cole in 2000, where we ordered our ships to sea rather than our Marines to shore. So now, in 2003, in Iraq and Afghanistan, our soldiers and Marines are paying the price in their blood for the boundless tolerance and rationalized inaction of their superiors when faced with danger and assault over the last 30 years.

There is another term for tolerant inaction in the face of danger: appeasement. Whether they know it or not, the Deans, Clarks, Kerrys, and all the other politicians and pundits who will find any excuse for inaction or retreat, are, functionally, appeasers. That is a rational policy — if the enemy is appeasable.

If Hitler had been content with taking Czechoslovakia, Neville Chamberlain would be seen as a great man by history. And Churchill would have been seen as the mere warmonger he was then called.

If, today, the Islamist terrorists are appeasable, then Bush is a fool. If they are not, then we should apply to America Churchill's warning to England over 70 years ago: "England's hour of weakness is Europe's hour of danger." And we should be heartened by George Bush's confident strides in the inevitably bloody march to peace.

roughly 1% of our airtime is free. We compete tooth and nail with infomercials, not to mention other ministries, for much of the other 99%.

We teach the meat of the Word, as opposed to the milk, and we don't harangue for funds. Of course, this is no way to build an empire. Not here on earth, anyway. We hear from about 3% of our regular viewers. Of those who receive our free newsletters, one-third contribute financially. That means that each of you who support this outreach, on average, cover two families' newsletter subscriptions besides yours, plus our TV broadcasts for 33 regular viewers and hundreds of periodic watchers.

Do you recall my article, regarding www.rateitall.com and www.charitynavigator.com, on pages 28-29 of the November Levitt Letter? After receiving 28 more votes from visitors since then, Rateitall.com upgraded our composite score from 3.65 stars to 4.12. For the optimum Capacity rating from Charity Navigator, we would need to have 6 months' worth of revenue on hand. That is not our goal! When the Rapture comes, we don't want to be caught with a large treasury that should have been invested in television airtime, teaching materials, and free newsletters.

My business management professors warned against too rapid growth. However, the 67% increase that

Thursday mornings on PAX will cause in our airtime expenditures is perfectly pure in the sense that it adds zero to overhead costs and goes totally toward reaching new households on a different day and time than our other airtimes. It is noteworthy that this is the first time PAX has offered us a time slot among other religious programming. This ministry has tremendous goodwill with its present supporters, plus as many as a million others who know Zola, want to see him, and only now will be able to. PAX's other 79 million homes will be able to watch Zola for the first time.

We have also dramatically upgraded the quality of our Internet broadcasts. Whether you click on “Zola on Internet TV” at www.levitt.com or just go to www.levitt.tv, you will find a larger, clearer picture and better sound than just a few months ago. Consequently, by downloading free software, you can enjoy our best and newest programs 24/7, particularly if you have a high-speed connection. (FYI, we “Napster” ourselves in the sense that you can watch for free the same programs that we sell on VHS tapes.)

Seven of 2003’s Levitt Letters were double editions! We have also upgraded from only full-color front and back covers to half of the pages throughout being in full color. As you can imagine, we are busier than ever, and our readers and viewers couldn’t be more delighted.

Tourism to Israel is recovering, and Zola is speaking in more churches than ever before. He pulls a travel trailer with a pickup truck so that he can speak far and wide at minimal expense. We are also creating more new television programs than ever and showing fewer reruns. If we did not love what we do, thanks be to God, we could not go on like this with a lean staff of only 12.

If you like what we teach, then please help us with prayers, tithes and offerings. You are welcome to see our independently audited financial reports. Last year, by the way, the IRS audited this ministry and found everything aboveboard. (You can see the related article on page 28 of our December 2002 Levitt Letter, posted at www.levitt.com.)

We believe God blesses this ministry because we bless Israel. It’s as simple as that.

As you’ll probably recall, in the past, Zola has often suggested that readers give elsewhere because our finances were in good shape. Now, however, we have undertaken such a huge expansion of our television airtime all at once that we must call on each of you to sustain us more than before. It will take months and months for PAX viewers to notice Zola’s program, watch him regularly, request our newsletters, and eventually begin helping with our bills.

It is fools’ folly to experiment with a TV time slot for less than a year. Thus, we have to dig in for the duration to give our new airtime a legitimate chance. But this 67% increase is such a growth spurt that it certainly will test our faith and resolve. Some of you have written to express heartfelt thanks for the years of free teaching from this ministry, thankful that you are now able to pitch in. In the past, our older (and more experienced) donors were covering for those who didn’t contribute; as you realize, now it’s time for everyone to pitch in.

PAX is a widely respected network. Consequently, some have complimented our decision because, they say, being on PAX will enhance our credibility. This ministry pays its bills every week and has an excellent credit record. Nonetheless, PAX is passing on to us the legacy of having dealt with infomercial merchants and, unlike any other stations or networks, requiring us to pay in advance. This is what it takes to conquer infomercial territory, and we are up to the task. By being better-paying customers with long-term, higher quality programming than the competition, we have captured a significant slice of the airwaves for Christ!

Since we are already creating newsletters and producing television programs, it is glorious to see them go farther and wider. When we begin to break even on PAX, I promise to announce it. That will be quite a victory to share indeed, and we will rejoice in the Lord. ■

One of Norway’s most highly profiled and rightwing politicians, Carl I. Hagen, is urging the nomination of former US President Bill Clinton as new NATO boss.

Hagen, who heads Norway’s Progress Party, told newspaper Aftenposten that NATO’s new leader should have international authority, respect, and experience. He thinks Clinton, therefore, is the perfect choice. “There are plenty of people who can be leader of a secretariat in Brussels, but that’s not what NATO needs right now,” Hagen told Aftenposten, adding that he thinks NATO needs a “political heavyweight.”

Clinton, he notes, “has good and close contacts with many of Europe’s leaders, and he enjoys considerable respect. He can be the bridge-builder the alliance needs.” Hagen also said he thinks it would be difficult for US President George W. Bush to oppose Clinton if a majority of European countries want him. ■

Jaywalking

“Are you following this? The city’s on fire, the earth is shaking.... If you’re not familiar with this sequence of events, I think the next one is locusts. You might want to check your Bible.

“Yesterday they said the fires may be the work of arsonists. And today President Bush told reporters, ‘It is wrong to hate all followers of arsonism just because a few arsonists have done something bad.’” — Jay Leno, The Tonight Show, commenting on the disastrous October fires in southern California

Terrorism by Fire

The FBI alerted law enforcement agencies last October that an Al-Qaeda terrorist now in detention had talked of masterminding a plot to set a series of devastating forest fires around the western United States.

The Arizona Republic reported that the detainee said the plan involved three or four people setting wildfires using timed devices in Colorado, Montana, Utah, and Wyoming that would detonate in forests and grasslands after the operatives had left the country. The newspaper said many forest law enforcement officers it contacted had no idea the warning had been issued. — Associated Press

Sarah’s Children

Like her Biblical namesake, 81-year-old Israeli Sarah Ben-Kasus is the matriarch of her own large family. The mother of eight has 50 grandchildren and 100 great-grandchildren. Avi and Yochai, two of Sarah’s grandsons, bet each other on who would father the 100th great-grandchild. Yochai (which means “God Lives”) won by two days. — Israel Today

Connect the Dots

Israeli Defense Minister Shaul Mofaz disclosed yesterday that terrorist camp in Lebanon are training some of the jihadists who are infiltrating Iraq to kill American soldiers. The only surprise here is that many in the State Department still haven’t connected the dots concerning the war being waged against America and Israel. We are fighting the same enemy. That enemy is not interested in real estate on the West Bank. It wants the destruction of the Jewish state. That enemy won’t be satisfied if US forces leave the Middle East. It wants the destruction of America.

An Al-Qaeda website this week featured an interview with a leading jihadist suggesting plans were underway to strike the US with a devastating blow that would take 100,000 lives. They may be bluffing, but does anyone doubt they have the will to kill as many of us as possible if given the means? We are now facing in Iraq what Israel faces everyday on its own soil — an enemy that hides behind women and children, kills the defenseless, and ignores the rules of civilization. Perhaps the bureaucrats at the State Department will begin to think twice about lecturing our only reliable ally in the Middle East about the risks it must take for peace.

Celebrating Murder

A major soccer tournament glorifying arch terrorists is underway in the Palestinian Authority [PA]. While terrorist glorification is not unusual in the PA, this tournament is striking because it is sponsored very prominently by the heads of the PA, including Yasser Arafat, the Minister of Sport, the Mufti [Muslim religious leader] of the PA, and 10 other senior PA officials.

Each of the 24 soccer teams is named for a terrorist or other Shahid [the term of supreme honor designating “Martyrs”], including some of the most infamous murderers. Among those honored are the first Hamas bomb-belt engineer, who initiated the suicide bombings, a terrorist woman who hijacked a bus killing 36 in 1978, the Head of the Terrorist Popular Front, the suicide bombers’ wing of the Hamas, the commander of the Suicide Bomber wing of Fatah, and the Black September terror group, involved in the [1972] Olympic massacre of Israeli athletes.

Presenting terrorists as heroes and role models is common practice in the PA. The soccer tournament for 12-year-old boys was named after the suicide terrorist who killed 30 at a Passover Seder in April 2002. This event is significant, as Yasser Arafat

Gone Fishin'

ZLM sent lots of our manpower to Israel last month: Our TV producer and camera man, our Travel Manager and Mail Processing Supervisor, two pairs of missionaries from our "To The Jew First" campaign, and Zola and his wife were there, of course, to lead the tour and make new television programs. We actually sent more people to Israel than we had remaining in our office. But all of us were fishing for men!

Targeting Killings

Harvard law professor Alan M. Dershowitz says there is “absolutely no doubt” that Israel’s policy of targeting killings of senior Hamas terrorists is legal under international law. In an opinion piece in last week’s Toronto Globe and Mail, Dershowitz wrote, “Hamas has declared war against Israel. All of its leaders are combatants, whether they wear military uniforms, suits, or religious garb. Under any reasonable standard, Israeli policy with regard to the targeted assassinations of ‘ticking bomb terrorists’ does not deserve the kind of condemnation it is receiving.

“Any democracy facing threats to its civilian population comparable to those faced by Israel would respond in much the same way Israel is now responding to the terrorism being conducted by Hamas and other terrorist groups.” — The International Jerusalem Post

Official Gay Airline

American Airlines has become one of the chief corporate sponsors of the American gay-rights movement... co-sponsoring award ceremonies hosted by the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation, despite that group’s nomination of the play “Corpus Christi” for an award. In that play, a Christ-figure has rampant homosexual relations with his apostles — including Judas. Apparently, the defamation of Christ is alright with this group that, by its own title, is “against defamation.”

Furthermore, American Airlines is listed as GLAAD’s “official airline” and as a $50,000 underwriter of their efforts. American Airlines also gave $25,000 to the gay-rights group known as the Human Rights Campaign last year and has offered special fares to the National Gay and Lesbian Journalists Association. American also funds “Outfest” — an annual homosexual film festival.

If you would like to share your feelings with company officials regarding their funding of the anti-family homosexual-rights agenda, you may do so by writing American Airlines President Gerard Arpey, 4333 Amon Carter Blvd., Fort Worth, TX 76155. Or you may fax your letter to the company’s executive offices at 817-967-9641. — National Liberty Journal

UN Hypocrites

After 40 years of isolation, Israel was officially readmitted into the society of law-abiding nations recently with the election of its legal advisor to the UN General Assembly’s Sixth Committee.

At a General Assembly meeting, Tal Becker, who serves as legal advisor to Israel’s UN mission, was elected by consensus to serve as one of three vice chairmen on the committee, which deals with various legal affairs.

Before 2003, Israel’s last posting to a General Assembly committee was in 1961. Israel was banned from sitting on committees in the 1960s after it was excluded from joining any of the five UN regional groups that are tasked with presenting candidates for committee posts. In 2000, Israel was finally admitted into the UN’s Western European and Others Group. — The Jerusalem Post

Apartheid State

The Jerusalem Post reports that the al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigades, a branch of Yasser Arafat’s Fatah organization, “distributed leaflets in Jerusalem threatening to execute Palestinians who sell their property to Jews or act as intermediaries in such deals.... The Al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigades warn those thieves and traitors who are selling [Arab-owned] lands through Israeli real estate agents.”

This refutes the anti-Semitic lie that Israel is an “apartheid state.” Whereas Israel has perhaps a million Arab citizens, Palestinian Arabs are willing to murder fellow Arabs in an attempt to ensure that the disputed territories are Judenrein [“Jew free”]. — “Arab Apartheid,”

Letters to Zola

Some letters have been edited for space.

We checked the website as we went to print, and it appears that this misinformation has actually been changed, unlike with American Airlines who tried to hang on through an entire summer with a similar sin, explaining it this way and that. Texas came through. When I am asked on the streets of Jerusalem which country I come from, I usually say in Hebrew, "Ahnee me' Tecksas" (I'm from Texas). — Zola

Dear Zola:

In years past, we never missed your show, and we always read your newsletter from cover to cover. Not any more! There is no Jesus there any more. I ask you to ask yourself if you are becoming "even the elect" that are led astray in the last days. You have lost your focus on our Messiah and placed it on politics and war. You need to come back to the cross. — CH

Dear CH:

I believe I quote our Lord in every Levitt Letter at least in regard to End Times prophecy, on which He was especially eloquent. One might cite the Book of Esther for not mentioning God by name, yet it is still an inspired book of Scripture. Unfortunately, politics and war are day-to-day existence now, and the Messiah Himself predicted this like no one else, when He said, "Ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars..." Mt. 24:6. And please see the next letter for another reader's perspective. — Zola

Dear Mr. Levitt:

I would like to finally thank you personally after many years of your teaching and blessing to me and my family. The more I learn about the Jews and their faith, the more I am convinced that Yeshua is the Fulfillment and Truth. I am so grateful that, because of you and your ministry, I have learned to love God's chosen people and to pray for the peace of Jerusalem and Israel. — SS

Zola:

Thank you for sharing information in your newsletter regarding the University of Texas' statement that Gaza and the West Bank are countries. I complained and here's their reply to me — AB

Most Christians are totally unaware of what the Islamic Koran teaches. A few selected verses:

“O, believers, do not hold Jews and Christians as your allies.” — 5:51

“If they [non-Islamic people] do not keep away from you, nor offer you peace, nor restrain their hands, seize them and kill them wherever they are. We have given you a clear sanction against them.” — 4:91

“Muhammad is the prophet of God, and those who are with him are severe with infidels.” — 48:29

“Prepare against them [the non-Islamic people] whatever arms and cavalry you can muster, that you may strike terror in the hearts of the enemies of God and of your own.” 8:60

“Fight unbelievers until all opposition ends.” — 8:39

Dear Mr. Levitt,

I have received your newsletter for many years and even had the opportunity to hear you speak once in New Castle, PA. I am now attending seminary in Ashland, OH. The academic dean, also a theology professor, told us what you have heard all too often, that Israel is now the Church. He also said that the New Jerusalem was figurative. I asked him what the measurements were figurative of. He did not know.

This same man, the academic dean here at the seminary, gave a speech in a lecture series about why Christians love Israel. He never did seem to answer that, but he argued that the Christians' love for Israel was tied to Dispensationalism. Christians want to help Jesus return sooner, and so they try to hurry the Jews back to Israel and want the temple built (which he says is also figurative). The Christians' love for Israel really began in the late 1800s with these dispensational eschatological views, he said.

One more thing — just so you know, Prairie Bible College now has an Israeli flag that was purchased from Zola

Levitt Ministries. When I was a student there, they did not have a flag of Israel. I gave them the one I bought from you, so they now can at least hang it with the rest.

I never understood how Christian colleges and seminaries have flags of many countries of the world, but don't think about Israel. (I also asked here at Ashland Theological Seminary why they did not have an Israeli flag at their missions conference. They did not know, but said they would discuss it at their missions committee). — PM

Dear PM:

You sure have patience to talk with Replacement theologians. Believe me, their “missions committee” is not going to change its mind on anything, particularly not Israel. I've had a great deal of experience with these sort of “Christians,” who I believe will have to attend a remedial course when they get to Heaven, if they're going at all. In some ways, replacement theologians dominating the Catholic and Protestant denominational churches are Israel's most formidable enemy, virtually blocking the genuine Christian witness and love of the Holy Land. (See our next issue for a report on the United Methodists and other anti-Israel “Christians.”) — Zola

Hello:

My sister and I went to hear Zola at Cedar Valley church to hear Zola. I wanted to let everyone there know how much we loved listening to him and how much we enjoyed his teaching there. The very best part was when he prayed with us in Hebrew; that is when I felt the Holy Spirit quicken in me — it was wonderful.

The Hebrew language is such a beautiful language and knowing it is the language of God's chosen people makes it even more beautiful. Please tell Zola “Thank You” for coming and I pray he comes again if we have time before the Rapture — if not I will see Him when we get Home.

Also, he mentioned that he has heart problems — is it serious or something he just needs to take special care of? May God Bless us all till He Comes for us! — CI

Dear CI:

I've had six heart bypasses since 1982, but also a lot of intercessory prayer by our viewers and readers!
— Zola

Dear Friends:

I want to give a strong “thank you” to our readers because, truly, donations are way up and as far as our first month on the PAX network goes, your gifts have covered these broadcasts. We are so delighted. But please note that it will take, at least a year, to realize donations that will absolutely pay for the extended airtime.

I am very pleased that people have taken this expansion seriously, but must note that it will take a long pull of expanded prayer, and additional giving from our regular readers and viewers to allow us to continue this expanded outreach.

Thanks for your prayers and support and know that we intend to stay at our post and do what we can until the Lord arrives.

In my recent tour to Israel (where peace broke out once again, as usual), I noted reactions to anti-Semitic speeches and events throughout the world. In particular, the remarks from the obnoxious prime minister of Malaysia about the old story of the Jewish plot to take over the world. But oddly enough, I got all the way back to Dallas, and read a letter to the editor in the International Jerusalem Post, to find the champion anti-Israel, anti-Semitic statement of perhaps all time, which I humbly submit to you below.

Please send a copy of this to your local newspaper to instruct them on how to really criticize the Chosen People and the Promised Land. Our sister democracy must be properly punished. (We will take care of The New York Times.)

This letter is precious because it's the most anti-Israel writing I have ever read, and I have read some. It also is unique in the fact that every single sentence from top to bottom is untrue. Even Palestinian propaganda (or Nazi propaganda, for that matter) is built on a foundation of ten or twenty percent truth in order to make their exaggerations and biases believable. But the following letter stands alone as an inveterate pack of lies, which I'll refute statement by statement after the letter.

Sir:

There is no doubt that incitement to hatred based on race or religion is repugnant to all of the peoples of the world. Malaysian Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad's comments are to be derided for this reason.

However, Israelis and Americans should consider what would make a “moderate” leader from a nearly fully developed nation like Malaysia spew such venom.

People all over the world, not just Muslims, are sickened by the refusal of Israel to withdraw fully and finally to the 1948 borders and recognize the friendly sovereign nation of Palestine, which exists in the West Bank and Gaza.

Fairly or not, the actions of your nation since 9/11 are viewed around the world as a genocide (dare I say Holocaust?) of the proud, enslaved Palestinian people.

The global community cannot understand why the Israelis are the only people blinded to the fact that the Palestinians have nothing other than their lives remaining to compromise with. At least the American public can be forgiven their ignorance, given the extreme bias of their domestic media.

You, the people of Israel, have the sole ability to solve the Middle Eastern problem, but a refusal to see reality and compromise looks set to plunge the world into WW III.

Currently, history records the great Jewish people as maligned and victimized. What will it say then?

— David Hawkins
Auckland, New Zealand

I will deal with the writer's statements one by one, leaving none out. To begin with, hatred based on race or religion is popular with all peoples of the world, and not really repugnant these days. The prime minister's comments were not derided except for a few Jewish people and friends of Israel. The prime minister is not “moderate,” nor is his nation “nearly fully developed.”

People all over the world are not sickened by Israel's refusal to withdraw to 1948 borders. No one has even requested this, not even the Palestinians. What is discussed are the 1967 borders, when Israel, attacked on three sides, defended itself valiantly, and then wisely held on to virtually empty West Bank land in order to create a buffer against such attacks in the future.

In addition, the Palestinian entity is not “friendly,” “sovereign,” or a “nation.” This is not a genocide or holocaust; as a matter of fact, the Palestinian’s self-inflicted wounds have cost them (by their own reports) some 2,000 people, while they have murdered 800 innocent Israeli civilians. Six million Jewish people alone were killed during the Holocaust, and it is extremely offensive to hear such ludicrous comparisons. In addition, the Palestinian people are neither “proud” nor “enslaved.” They live in the freest of all Middle Eastern countries, and that goes without saying.

The Palestinians do not seek a compromise with their lives or anything else. They seek the death of five million Jews. The American public does fall under an extreme bias in regard to Israel in our domestic media but the bias actually runs the opposite way. It is anti-Israel and pro-Palestinian.

The people of the Palestinian society have the “sole ability to solve the Middle Eastern problem,” and we have cited it many times. Starting tomorrow morning, they should simply not leave their homes to murder the Jewish people, and the same the day after that, and the day after that, and so forth for a thousand years. There would not be a shot fired from Israel’s side, nor any objection to the Palestinian people, if they would stop their murders. It’s as simple as that.

So far as WW III goes, Israel simply doesn’t matter. All the negative publicity in the world will not overcome the fact that this relative handful of people, smaller than the population of many American cities, makes no difference to world affairs or commerce. It is doubtful that Israel has any effect on world peace, war, or anything else.

The statement that “history records the great Jewish people as maligned and victimized” is the only one that comes close to the truth. Though history doesn’t fairly record the victimization of the Jews, those who malign and victimize the Jewish people are like the writer of this letter, whose bizarre, “stand-on-his-head” view of the Jewish world causes such effects.

And then there’s Thomas L. Friedman, whose obnoxious op-ed piece, “A Saudi-Israeli Deal,” recently ran in The New York Times. The final paragraph breaks all rules of journalistic integrity and wildly mischaracterizes Israeli settlers. Here’s that paragraph:

Unfortunately, right now both the House of Saud and the House of Sharon prefer to buy time by relying on police rather than political initiatives. In the long run, this won’t work. Both need to take on their Wahhabis: the Muslim Wahhabi extremists who are choking Saudi Arabia’s future and the Jewish Wah-habi settlers who are doing the same to Israel.

There is a House of Saud, the thirty thousand members of the Royal Family of Saudi Arabia, which has diverted the country’s oil income into their own coffers. And there are Wahhabis, the very dangerous Muslim extremists who attacked the World Trade Center and have committed any number of other terrorist atrocities.

But to compare such people with Sharon and with settlers who have built homes and schools on empty land which they were promised by God as long as four thousand years ago, is an insult to decency beyond the anti-Israel extremism of even The New York Times. To use an expression like “Jewish Wahhabi settlers” for innocent civilians shows an almost pathological problem on the part of this Jewish writer.

We must keep in mind that anti-Israelism and anti-Semitism are signs of the End Times. As we’ve said before, our Lord pointed out that “ye shall be hated of all nations”

(Mt. 24:9) and it is quite reasonable to apply this kind of letter, the Friedman editorial, the Malaysian prime minister’s statements, and all the rest of the hatred heaped upon the Jews, as signs of a lost world in its last sinful throes.

I’m hoping you’ll join us in Orlando, Florida, at The Holy Land Experience where we will tour on the weekend after Christmas (December 26th - 28th). This site gives a first-century view of what Jerusalem was like, with many Biblical attractions to visit and enjoy. An additional plus is that our package cost actually makes it less expensive than doing the same trip on your own. This is truly the next-to-the-best thing to actually going to Israel.

We are also making arrangements to have a tour of Israel in March. The Deluxe Tour, visiting Israel only, will depart on March 14th and will return on the 24th. Our Grand Petra Tour, visiting both Israel and Petra, will depart on March 14th and return on the 28th. The Grand Athens Tour, cruising the Greek Isles and touring Israel, extends from March 10th through the 24th. Finally, our Ultra-Grand Tour, with everything—the Greek Isles, Israel and Petra—will begin on March 10th and end on the 28th.

For more information or the confirmation of tour dates, check with Tony at (214)696-9760 during business hours. You can also call 1-800-WONDERS (1-800-966-3377) anytime for a brochure about any of our tours.

Please remember to pray for the peace of Jerusalem.

“Zionist Murderers”

By Yossie Kiron, USAJewish.com

We recently went to the Marks and Spencer department store. On the way, the bus conductor wanted it known to the passengers that he was Moroccan. He went from seat to seat making a point of greeting passengers in Arabic, and animatedly chatting with women in traditional Muslim clothes.

As we approached Oxford Street he went to the front of the bus and told us that “Marks and Spencer sell things and then send the money to the Jewish.” He then said what one assumes was a similar piece of useful information to a Muslim woman and both became rather agitated.

The bus driver leaned out of his cab and with considerable irritation lectured the conductor on the history of the Holocaust and of the “Jewish.” As we were leaving the bus I could hear the conductor reminding the driver that all Marks and Spencer money goes to “Zionist murderers.”

We then found ourselves in Oxford Street where there was a contingent of police officers who were protecting a small group of young Jewish men who had set up a table with an Israeli flag. The men were further protected by a substantial metal barrier, to separate them from what can only be described as an hysterical crowd of hate-filled people. What was so depressing was that non-Arabs in the noisy crowd outnumbered those from the Middle East.

For years, Palestinian groups have had a stall outside Marks and Spencer to protest the history of the Sieff family and to stop people from shopping at a store that stocks Israeli goods. The Palestinian young people are never attacked, and when Jews approach them, the most that happens is a lively discussion.

I began to pick up snippets of shouts from this viscerally angry crowd. One woman in religious Muslim attire — actually jumping up and down — screamed at the top of her voice to the Israel supporters, “You Jews destroyed my country, Iraq.” Someone asked her what Israel had to do with Iraq and she screeched, “You killed sixty of my family in Iraq.” She was asked how sixty Iraqis were killed by Israelis and she said, “Israel — USA! Same thing! And now you will take over Iran!” She became so agitated that she had to be led away by the police.

Then came the chorus of really quite terrifyingly angry English people with their shouted mantras of “You people invented terrorism in Palestine”; “Israel is expanding every day and will soon own the whole Middle East!”; “Israel is slaughtering thousands of Palestinians every day.”

But the crowning glory was an elegantly-dressed businessman who seemed normal except for the fury in his eyes. He said, “I love and revere the suicide bombers. Every time I hear of a suicide bomb going off I wish it had been eighty or ninety Jews instead of a pitiful handful.” He then went on to shout and had reached a point of hysteria: “You people have been trying to acquire land across the entire globe and will soon own every nation if you are not stopped!” Thankfully, a policewoman came over. We were pleased to see that the policewoman was making every effort to book him.

We have no objection to ethnic diversity, but we are sickened when we see British and Arab people united in such blood-curdling hatred of one very tiny minority. (Lest we forget, Jews are now outnumbered ten to one by Muslims in the UK.) What alarms us is the profoundly visceral hatred shown by the crowd towards a mild-looking group of young Jewish men and bystanders supporting them.

Does this mean, as Melanie Phillips has said so often in the British press this year, that Britain is no longer a place where Jews may live without fear? Yes, we think it does.

Sadly, we believe anti-Semitism is endemic in the world at large. We feel that our own spiritual home is the United States (we have given up trying to explain to European Jews why we feel as free and proud as Jews in the USA as we do in Israel), but were we as young as the men on the Israel stall on Thursday we would make aliyah [ascension to Israel]. Now. ★

Tanks for the Memories

First Lieutenant Liat Zohar, 27, heads the army unit that repairs engines of tanks and armored personnel carriers — and she loves her job. The 50 men under her command know she requires that the work space is always clean and tidy, a fact attributed to her as a female. “For me, order in the toolbox is a sign of professionalism,” Liat says.

Under her leadership, the shop repairs 1,200 engines annually, compared to just 500 in previous years. In her spare time, she plays soccer with her soldiers. Her dream is to meet army Chief of Staff Moshe Ya’alon.

This article reminds me of the 1967 and 1973 wars when the Arabs invaded with large numbers of Russian tanks and operated them badly. The Israelis studied the tanks, took them apart, and learned how to repair tanks that the Arabs abandoned. So many tanks were captured that the Israelis set up an actual Soviet tank repair unit of Russian-reading Jews, who took the disabled machines and put them back into the field. The tanks were sent on trucks to the factory where they were repaired, a Jewish star painted on each, and placed into service with the IDF (Israel Defense Force).

This is not unusual. When we sell Israel anything from rifles to airplanes, they modify it, making it better.

“Black Hebrews” Allowed to Stay in Israel

By Netanel Doron, Israel Today

The Interior Ministry has given the community of the Black Hebrews permanent residency status, ending a long struggle for recognition. The sect began in 1969, when 2,000 Afro-Americans followed former bus driver Ben Ami Carter to the Negev desert and settled in the town of Dimona. Believing they’re descendents of one of the 10 lost tribes of Israel, the Black Hebrews practice polygamy and abstain from meat, milk products, eggs, and sugar.

With their new residency rights, they can serve in the army and even apply for Israeli citizenship in the future. Until now, they’ve held temporary residency status. Several months ago, American pop star Whitney Houston visited the community in Dimona, where her mother lives. ■

Look, Mom, No Jesus!

By Susan Jones, CNSNEWS

New York City does not allow Christmas Nativity scenes on its property because it considers them religious in nature. The Thomas More Law Center filed a federal lawsuit last year, seeking to restrain the city from enforcing its ban on Nativity scenes.

According to the center, New York City schools do not allow Christmas Nativity scenes, but they do encourage the display of the Jewish Menorah during Hanukkah and the Islamic star and crescent during Ramadan. One New York City public school principal issued a memo encouraging teachers to bring “religious symbols” representing Islamic and Jewish religions to school, but the memo didn’t mention Christianity.

Robert Muise, the Thomas More Law Center attorney handling the case, said the lawsuit will decide whether public school officials can enforce a policy that shows preference for Judaism and Islam, but disfavors Christianity.

“Can Christianity be erased from a public school? Can ‘Christ’ be removed from Christmas? We will soon find out,” Muise said in a press release. ■

From Our Man in Jerusalem

By Will King

What is behind the recent wave of anti-Semitism that has gripped the globe, especially the European continent? Attacks against Jewish people, businesses, and holy places have become ever more frequent. Scathing condemnations of Israel in numerous resolutions introduced by the Arab nations, and supported by the EU, in the UN General Assembly and other subcommittees are a regular occurrence.

Particularly inciting remarks were made by the Malaysian prime minister in October, and the French subsequently blocked an EU resolution to officially condemn those remarks. And hate-filled comments were made by Greek composer Mikis Theodorakis in November to an audience that included several Greek ministers and government officials.

In November, a survey of several thousand Europeans across the continent found that 59% of them believe that Israel is the greatest single threat to world peace and stability.

All of these acts represent not only a rise in anti-Semitism and Israel bashing, but the degree to which a largely secular European continent is willing to sacrifice Judeo-Christian values and moral clarity in favor of their oil and other business dealings with the dictators and corrupt governments of the Arab world.

When Jews and Christians express their support for Israel, it is through donations of money and goods to legitimate and recognized charities, solidarity trips to the Holy Land, and by increasing the awareness of world political and religious leaders through lobbying and peaceful demonstration. When Muslims and their sympathizers wish to show their support for the Palestinian people, it is through backhanded donations to fraudulent charities, by the incitement of hate and violence against Israel and all Jews, by explaining away homicide bombings and other criminal acts as “legitimate struggle against occupation,” and through shootings, stabbings, and bombings.

One of the visions of President Bush and the Road Map peace plan is for free and unrestricted access for all persons to the holy sites of all religions. In Israel, this already exists at the many holy sites under Israeli responsibility. In Muslim-controlled areas, however, non-Muslims have many restrictions placed upon them if they wish to visit a mosque or other Muslim holy site. Non-Muslims cannot pray or even carry a Bible onto the Temple Mount.

Christian and Jewish holy sites in areas now administered by the PA (Palestinian Authority) are frequently desecrated, attacked, or outright destroyed, including Joseph’s Tomb and the Tomb of the Patriarchs. The Israeli government recently released a statistic showing that over twenty attacks in the last three years have come on a Jewish Sabbath or other religious holiday.

The November attacks on the synagogues in Istanbul confirm that this strategy of targeting Jews on Shabbat and other holy days is not only limited to Israel and the territories, but is part of the greater Arab mentality of “resistance.”

How can Israel be expected to negotiate with such people who have no religious tolerance, and who don’t recognize Israel’s right to exist as a Jewish state? And how can Israel make known its concerns to a largely secular European community, filled with countries that compete to see which one can appease the Arabs the most?

Any peace plan which bears the signature of the EU or its member countries will be about as “fair and balanced” as Al-Jazeera’s coverage of the Iraq war. Governments may talk of a peace between populations, but until there is true religious tolerance within Islam and a religious reawakening in Europe, there will be no peace between Islam and the world, and no peace in the Holy Land. In the end, only God’s peace plan, which was outlined 2,000 years ago, will bring true peace to Israel and the world. ★

Hebraic Insight

The Shema is the central prayer in the Jewish prayerbook (Siddur) and is often the first verse of Scripture that a Jewish child learns. During its recitation in the synagogue, Orthodox Jews pronounce each word very carefully and cover their eyes with their right hand. Many Jews recite the Shema at least twice daily: once in the morning and once in the evening. It is also sometimes said as a bedtime prayer (“the bedtime Shema”).

The complete Shema is actually composed of three parts linked together into a unity:

1. Deuteronomy 6:4-9 (Shema): The core Hebrew prayer. Special emphasis is given to the first six Hebrew words of this passage (Shema Yisrael, Adonai eloheinu, Adonai echad) and a six-word response is said in an undertone (barukh shem kevod malkhuto le'olam va'ed). After a pause, Deuteronomy 6:5-9 is then recited, which stresses the commandment to love the Lord your God with all of your heart, soul, and might.
2. Deuteronomy 11:13-21 (Vehayah): This moving passage stresses the blessings that come through obedience to Adonai and the consequences that come through disobedience.
3. Numbers 15:37-41 (Vaiyomer): This passage concerns the use of the tallit, a rectangular prayer shawl with four fringes (called tsitsit). One tsitsit is attached to each corner of the tallit. The reason for wearing the tsitsit is to remind oneself to observe all of the commandments of the Lord.

The Shema marks the declaration that God is One. Interestingly, the word echad in Hebrew can imply a unity in diversity (the word for one and only one, i.e., unique, is more often rendered as yachid). For example, in Exodus 26:6 the various parts of the Tabernacle (mishkan) are to be constructed so that “it shall be one (echad) tabernacle,” and Ezekiel spoke of two “sticks” (representing fragmented Israel) as being reunited into one: “and they shall be one (echad) stick in My hand” (Ezekiel 37:19).

“The World Has Gone Mad”

By Joseph Farah, WorldNetDaily.com

What’s the lesson of the European poll showing that nearly 60 percent of those surveyed believe Israel to be the greatest threat to peace in the world today?

The lesson is that Israel’s semi-suicidal quest for peace at any price is not respected by the world.

In fact, it demonstrates Israel’s concessions to Arab myth-making and the wholesale fabrication of reality has backfired. The world clearly believes the propaganda ploy by Yasser Arafat and the so-called Palestinian movement.

Israel’s gravest mistake was yielding to international pressure to compromise its own security for peace with people who have no desire to live with them in peace and harmony.

It’s not too late to reverse course.

Perhaps the Euro-poll will shake the Israel public from its sleepwalk.

Not since the 1948 war of independence has Israel felt so isolated and besieged — feelings that could indeed increase the danger not only to the nation’s security but to regional peace as well.

The poll was conducted in 15 European countries. In the survey, 500 people from each of the 15 EU countries were asked which state they regard as most dangerous to world peace. According to the results, 59 percent of the people polled believe Israel tops the list, and 52 percent positioned the US in second place.

What’s absurd about the poll results is that Israel is one of the few countries in the world earmarked for extinction and destruction by enemies around the world.

Israel has never sought to destroy its enemies. On the contrary, Israel has weakened its own security position by arming its enemies, providing them land and giving them money in a futile and foolish effort to avert future wars.

That’s Israel’s real mistake — not aggression, not suppression, not repression, but appeasement.

Just look at how this survey has been used already.

Militant Arabs and Muslims, especially organizations such as Hezbollah, Hamas and other terrorist groups, have already declared the European survey to be a call for a “final solution” — meaning the ultimate holocaust for Jews.

Americans should take special note of the fact that the US, too, is viewed as a major danger to world peace in the poll.

We’re living in a time when right is wrong and wrong is right, when truth is seen as a lie and lies are seen as truth.

How can anyone in their right mind believe the tiny sliver of a land called Israel, with fewer than 7 million people, could actually represent the gravest threat to peace in the world?

Clearly, to a great extent, the world has gone mad.

Those who call only for multilateral foreign policy decisions and for greater global governance should keep this in mind.

Israel has done what no other nation in the world has done in the last three decades — sacrifice over and over again its own security interests and concerns in a breathtaking, selfless and often ill-advised crusade for peace with duplicitous neighbors.

For that, it is perceived not only as a pariah nation, but the biggest threat to peace in the world today — worse than Iran, worse than North Korea, worse than Syria.

The more efforts Israel makes for peace, the more it is seen as a warmonger. The further Israel goes in making concessions to its enemies, the more it is seen as the aggressor. The more evidence mounts that Israel is an embattled target in the Mideast, fewer can see the truth.

This is an illustration of why it’s time for Israel to put its own national security interests first and world opinion a distant second. That’s a good lesson for the United States, too. ■

Joe McCain is the brother of Senator John McCain.

Can Israel Survive?

By Joe McCain, WomenInGreen.org

There is a lot of worry popping up in the media just now — “Can Israel Survive?”

Don't worry about it. It relates to something that Palestinians, the Arabs, and perhaps most Americans don't realize — the Jews are never going quietly again. Never. And if the world doesn't come to understand that, then millions of Arabs are going to die. It's as simple as that.

Throughout the history of the world, the most abused, kicked-around race of people have been the Jews. Not just during the holocaust of World War II, but for thousands of years. They have truly been “The Chosen People” in a terrible and tragic sense.

I stood in the center of Dachau for an entire day, about 15 years ago, trying to comprehend how [the Holocaust] could have happened. I had gone there on a side trip from Munich, vaguely curious about this Dachau. I soon became engulfed in the enormity of what had occurred there nestled in this middle and working class neighborhood.

How could human beings do this to other human beings, hear their cries, their pleas, their terror, their pain, and continue without apparently even wincing? I no longer wonder. At some times, some places, any sect of the human race is capable of horrors against their fellow man, whether a member of the Waffen SS, a Serbian sniper, a Turkish policeman in 1920s Armenia, a Mississippi Klansman. Because even in the United States not all was a Rose Garden. For a long time Jews had quotas in our universities and graduate schools. Only so many Jews could be in a medical or law school at one time. Jews were disparaged widely. I remember as a kid Jewish jokes told without a wince — “Why do Jews have such big noses?”

Well, now the Jews have a homeland again. A place that is theirs. And that's the point. It doesn't matter how many times the United States and European powers try to rein in Israel. If it comes down to survival of its nation, its people, they will fight like no lioness has ever fought to save her cubs. They will fight with a ferocity, a determination, and a skill, that will astound us.

And many will die, mostly their attackers, I believe. If there were a macabre historical betting parlor, my money would be on the Israelis to be standing at the end. As we killed the kamikazes and the Wehrmacht soldaten of World War II, so will the Israelis kill their suicidal attackers, until there are not enough to torment them.

The irony goes unnoticed — while we are hammering away to punish those who brought the horrors of September 11th here, we restrain the Israelis from the same retaliation. Not the same thing, of course — We are We, They are They. While we mourn and seethe at September 11th, we don't notice that Israel has a September 11th — sometimes every day.

We may not notice, but it doesn't make any difference.

And it doesn't make any difference whether you are pro-Israeli or you think Israel is the bully of the Middle East. If it comes to where a new holocaust looms — with or without the concurrence of the United States and Europe — Israel will lash out without pause or restraint at those who would try to annihilate their country.

The Jews will not go quietly again.

Intel Invests in Israel

Source: Israel Today

Of all the research centers owned by the computer chip giant Intel, the largest outside the US is in Israel. The most recent achievements by Israeli Intel engineers include the revolutionary Centrino chip for laptops and the Manitoba microchip for cell phones.

Intel management wants to expand opportunities in creative technologies for their Israeli company, so the company has tasked Intel Project Manager Yossi Levy with recruiting qualified Israeli scientists. Levy is preparing scholarships and sponsoring chairs that will bring Israeli professors and Intel engineers together.

Intel's interest focuses mainly on wireless communication, chip development, microelectronic mechanical systems (MEMS), and nanotechnology. With 5,200 employees, Intel's Israeli operation had an annual turnover of $1.5 billion in 2002. This work force could increase by another 4,400 if the company gives the green light for construction of a $4 billion extension of its complex in Kiryat Gat.

California Tax Dollars at Work – Hating Jews

You are about to read a direct quote from the University of California at Berkeley course directory. A professor wrote this paragraph in order to promote a college course that teaches the anti-Israel point of view at a state university.

The Politics and Poetics of Palestinian Resistance: Since the inception of the intifada in September 2000, Palestinians have been fighting for their right to exist. The brutal Israeli military occupation of Palestine, an occupation that has been ongoing since 1948, has systematically displaced, killed, and maimed millions of Palestinian people. And yet, from under the brutal weight of the occupation, Palestinians have produced their own culture and poetry of resistance. This class will examine the history of the Palestinian resistance... in order to produce an understanding of the intifada and to develop a coherent political analysis of the situation. This class takes as its starting point the right of Palestinians to fight for their own self-determination. Conservative thinkers are encouraged to seek other sections.

Navel Destroyers

Egypt's foreign belly dancers have been given their marching orders. The government says it wants to protect homegrown practitioners of the seductive Middle Eastern dance form and is no longer granting new work permits to foreign dancers or renewing existing ones. The victims, who include Europeans and Americans, say it's unfair and illogical, and they are backed by one of the Arab world's most respected dancers, Nagwa Fouad, who is urging the government to reverse its ban. Fouad said, "There is not enough Egyptian talent, so obviously people need foreigners." — Paul Garwood, "Egypt Has a Bellyful of Foreign Dancers," The Jerusalem Post ■

Are You Listening to Their Preaching?

Rumors of the staging of a beauty pageant provoked rioting on a Nigerian campus between Muslim and Christian students, leaving one dead and dozens injured. The head of Maiduguri University's student union, Baba Shehu, told AFP that trouble broke out when Muslim students attacked a venue where they suspected a beauty parade was being held.

"The mob attacked with sticks and clubs. Those beaten were mainly women attending the party," Shehu said. "This incensed the Christian students, who decided to counterattack."

The Maiduguri University riot will revive memories of last year's unrest triggered by an aborted attempt to bring the Miss World beauty contest to Nigeria during Ramadan, which left more than 220 people dead. — "Beauty Pageant Riot Leaves One Dead," Agence Française de Presse ■

"Honor Through Murder"

Rofayda Qaoud—raped by her brothers and impregnated—refused to commit suicide even after her mother bought the unwed teenager a razor with which to slit her wrists. So the mother, Amira Abu Hanhan Qaoud, says she did what she believes any good Palestinian parent would: restored her family's "honor" through murder.

Armed with a plastic bag, razor and wooden stick, Qaoud entered her sleeping daughter's room. "Tonight you die, Rofayda," she told the girl, before wrapping the bag tightly around her head. Next, Qaoud sliced Rofayda's wrists, ignoring her muffled pleas of "No, mother, no!" After her daughter went limp, Qaoud struck her in the head with the stick.

The 43-year-old mother of nine explained, "I had to protect my children. This is the only way I could protect my family's honor." The guilty brothers are in jail. Rofayda's sister, Fatima, 9, says, "My mother did this because she does not want us to be punished by people. I love my mother much more now than before." — Soraya Sarhaddi Nelson, "Another 'honor' victim: Daughter, raped by brothers, killed by mother," Knight Ridder Newspapers ■

Breaking the Ice

Eight mountain climbers, four Israelis and four Palestinians, are trying to warm up relationships by challenging the Antarctic together. The Israeli-Palestinian "Ice-Breaker" team includes Israeli mountain climber Doron Arel, who already conquered Mount Everest; Israeli businessman Hazi Natanel, who made the dream expedition come true; a Palestinian from East Jerusalem, who spent three years in an Israeli prison for involvement in terrorism; an Arab teacher from Haifa; and an Ethiopian Jewish woman.

The group will fly to South America and then sail to the Antarctic. There, they plan to climb a 1,000 meter high mountain and plant Israeli and Palestinian flags on the peak. Source: Israel Today ■

"A Cup of Trembling"

By Jack Kinsella, Omega Letter

The UN General Assembly has passed a resolution demanding that Israel halt the construction of a controversial security barrier separating Israel from Palestinian areas in the West Bank.

One hundred and forty-four countries voted with the UN to demand that Israel halt construction of its security fence. Backed by the 15-member European Union, the resolution stated that the fence is "in contradiction to relevant provisions of international law."

This is particularly interesting. There is an international law against building a fence around your border?

How many countries, do you suppose, have border fences? Let's see. America has fenced portions of its southern border to prevent illegal aliens from sneaking into the country. There are even fenced areas along the US-Canadian border.

So where is the UN resolution condemning the US for its border fences?

Just for the record, there is no international law that forbids countries from building border fences. But there is an international law that forbids the UN from involving itself in the internal domestic affairs of a member state. It is part of the UN's own charter.

Israel, although the UN doesn't like to admit it, is a member state of the UN. On the other hand, there is no state of Palestine. What the Palestinians claim as their state is legally, under international law, Israel.

If not, then California and Texas are not part of America, since we got them the same way. We won them in a war.

The same way Israel got possession of the West Bank from Jordan and Gaza from Egypt. Israel WON possession of them in a war of aggression started by the other side.

On June 1, 1967, the West Bank was part of Jordan and Gaza and the Gaza Strip were part of Egypt. Egypt and Jordan were among the combatants defeated by Israel in the Six Day War. Had the Arabs won, would the UN now be condemning Yasser Arafat for fencing out the Jews? Unlikely. There wouldn't be any Jews.

But the Arabs lost. When the war was over, the West Bank and Gaza were part of Israel. Nothing unusual about that. There is only so much land. Nobody will make anymore. That is how countries are built. Every country on the face of the planet was once somebody else's land. Every UN member state used to be something else.

Every Arab state in the UN was created by the same pen that drew the borders of Israel at the San Remo Conference in 1923.

Think of it! Israel is a UN member state. The Palestinians are an insurgent rebel population using terrorism against women and children to force Israel to surrender land legally annexed following its victory in a war of aggression forced upon them by neighboring states.

The United Nations is siding with the insurgent rebels against a UN member state, to the point where they have passed a resolution that, in effect, forbids the member state from protecting its citizens against attack by rebel insurgents!

Now we turn again to the words of the prophet Zechariah, who predicted this exact situation, 2,500 years ago.

"Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of trembling unto all the people round about, when they shall be in the siege both against Judah and against Jerusalem. And in that day will I make Jerusalem a burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the Earth be gathered together against it" — Zechariah 12:2-3.

Of all the nations of the world, only Israel, the US, Micronesia, and the Marshall Islands voted against the assembly resolution. ■

“A Suitable Response”

By Khaled Abu Toamer, The Jerusalem Post

A majority of Palestinians continues to support suicide attacks against Israeli civilians, accord to a new public opinion poll published by the Jerusalem Media and Communication Center (JMCC). The poll found that 61.8 percent of Palestinians supported suicide attacks, while 34.9 percent are opposed to this form of terrorism.

Also, 67.9 percent said they supported the resumption of “military operations” against Israel “as a suitable response within the current political conditions.” And 42.3 percent said they supported the resumption of attacks inside Israel, the West Bank, and the Gaza Strip, as opposed to 14.1 percent who said the attacks should be restricted only to the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Thus, two-thirds of Palestinians support the murder of innocent civilians. — Zola

Letters to Other Publications

To: St. Louis Post-Dispatch

A headline, “Holy Terror,” correctly noted that the bombing of the Shiite mosque in Iraq was a terror attack. Yet in the same paper, the headline about the terrorist attack against an Israeli couple was “Palestinian Fighters Kill Israeli Settlers in West Bank.” Why is the bomber in Iraq a terrorist, but the gunman in the West Bank a “fighter”? They both attacked innocent civilians for political reasons.

Even when the bus in Jerusalem was bombed, killing 21 and wounding dozens of children, The Post-Dispatch still refused to label the attack a “terrorist” attack.

Please stop euphemistically labeling Palestinian terrorists as “militants” or “fighters.” To do so gives legitimacy to their intentional murder of civilians. — Lee Green, Chesterfield, MO

To: The LA Times

Thank you for Max Abraham’s commentary, “Terrorism Casts Pall on ‘Road Map.’” The security fence that Israel is constructing is not a barrier to peace. To the contrary, if the fence can prevent terror attacks, it may actually promote peace by compelling the Palestinians to negotiate in good faith without having the option of threatening terrorism if they don’t receive everything they want.

Moreover, it bears emphasis that, if and when there is a peace agreement, the fence can be removed or relocated in accordance with the terms of the treaty. By contrast, there is nothing that can be done to bring back the more than 1,000 Israeli innocents who have been barbarically murdered by Palestinian terrorists since the Oslo peace accords were signed in 1993. They are dead forever. — Stephen A. Silver, Concord, CA

To: Raleigh News and Observer

With regard to your headline, “Israelis Poised to Strike Militants,” Webster’s defines “terrorism” as “the unlawful use or threatened use of force or violence by a person or organized group against people or property with the intention of intimidating or coercing societies or governments, often for ideological or political reasons.”

The people recently murdered on a bus in Jerusalem were civilians who are exempt from military duty because of their religious beliefs. There is no way that these people posed a threat, immediate or potential, to any Palestinian. Your use of the term “militant” instead of “terrorist” might lead readers to assume that this morally repulsive act was somehow justified. By defining thousands of terrorist acts against Israelis and Jews as the acts of “militants,” your newspaper contributes to the support of terrorism by using the propaganda technique of imprecise, misleading language.

David Bar-Illan, who recently passed away, was a dear friend of our ministry, giving us many interviews when he was Executive Editor of The Jerusalem Post and also when he was senior advisor to then Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu. He was the author of the book Jerusalem: The Truth (see below), which he wrote specifically for our ministry, and it is a very good read.

The best story about Bar-Illan, and one I don't think we've ever run in the Levitt Letter, occurred when there was news that a Palestinian official had died in Egypt during a conference. In fact, the Israelis were informed that the official had died because the individual across the table from him pulled out a revolver and blew his brains out.

Bar-Illan approached his publisher and said, "Look, I can't just write that he died when we know what really happened." And the publisher said, "No, we can't reveal the presence of our informer. You must use their word. You must write 'died'." Bar-Illan thought about it, returned to the publisher, and asked, "How about 'They died him'?"

The following was written by Bar-Illan back in 1998, and demonstrates how well he could see what would unfold following the disastrous Oslo Agreements.

Oslo: Dead or Alive

By David Bar-Illan, The Jerusalem Post, Sept. 11, 1998

The late Yitzhak Rabin used to say that the Oslo Agreements are full of holes. Yet the fundamental problem is not the inadequacy of the agreements' provisions, but the assumption that the Palestinian Authority intended to keep them.

What the Israeli architects of Oslo had in mind was recently made clear by Shimon Peres: Israel could not remain both Jewish and democratic if it continued to rule over close to two million Palestinians in Judea, Samaria, and Gaza. Sooner or later, they would have the vote and turn the country into a bi-national state. The solution: Withdraw from "the territories" and let the Palestinians establish a state of their own, which would live peacefully, side-by-side with Israel.

None of this is specified in Oslo, which was touted as a prelude to Palestinian autonomy or a confederation with Jordan. The talk of autonomy was obviously a palliative for an Israeli public warned for years — by Labor as much as by the Right — that a Palestinian state would threaten Israel's existence. Yet the real intent was a return to the partition plan, in the assumption that most Israelis prefer peaceful coexistence to being in Jenin and Kalkilya, or even in Beit El and Shilo — regardless of what this says about their dedication to the Zionist ideal. Had the PLO subscribed to the Labor government's vision, the agreement would have been well on its way to realization. But something immediately went wrong. The worst wave of terrorism ever to hit Israel began even as the Declaration of Principles was being signed on the White House lawn. By March 1996, after Palestinian terrorists killed 220 Israelis, the process came to a screeching halt. The talks with the Palestinians were suspended, the withdrawal from Hebron was cancelled, and total closure was imposed on the territories.

What troubled Israelis was not just the terrorist war, but the PA's attitude to it. Chairman Yasser Arafat would habitually wave off correspondents' queries about the slaughter of civilians with derisive laughter, and — with typical contempt for human credulity — he repeatedly accused "an OAS-like organization in the Israeli army headed by Ehud Barak" of collaborating with Islamic Jihad in killing Israeli soldiers.

The terrorist groups continued to recruit, train, and openly carry arms in PA areas. Known killers of Israelis joined the Palestinian armed forces. Members of the Palestinian Police were caught committing terrorist acts, their orders traced to Palestinian police chief Ghazi Jabali. A December 1995 PA agreement with Hamas permitted terrorist operations, provided they could not be traced to areas controlled by the PA. Arafat's Preventative Security chief Jibril Rajoub confirmed the existence of this arrangement in May and June of this year.

JERUSALEM: THE TRUTH book (Updated!)

To learn the truth about Jerusalem and Middle East tensions, read the late David Bar-Illan. Formerly the editor of The Jerusalem Post and advisor to then Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, Bar-Illan's hard-hitting commentaries on the "peace process" penetrate the surface of politics in Israel and the often-duplicious diplo-speak of world leaders who seek to influence the Arab-Israeli conflict in the Middle East. From the beginning of negotiations with the PLO through the current Intifada, this book presents an honest picture of where Israel is headed and who is leading the way. Includes post/911 commentary from the author, plus Zola's own perspective on Israel's status since terrorism visited America. A must read for those who "pray for the peace of Jerusalem" (Psalm 122:6). Please see page 31 to order.

Not only Arafat's 1993 pledge to Rabin to combat terrorism was mocked. Arafat has done nothing about his other pledge: to reject the Covenant. Today only the terminally naive believe that the Palestinian Covenant, which calls for dismantling Israel, has been changed. The complete Covenant appears on a PA website on the Internet, and the even more outrageous Fatah constitution appears on the Fatah website. The PA has, in effect, admitted that the Covenant has not been changed, by accepting Dennis Ross's "Note for the Record" of January 1997, which includes a commitment to complete the Covenant's revision.

An unequivocal rejection of the Covenant would have an incalculable educational and psychological impact. The venom of this Palestinian constitution is reflected in every Palestinian textbook, patriotic song, and television program. To see seven-year-olds on a TV "children's club" vow to become suicide warriors and throw Israel into the sea, to hear Arafat publicly extolling "the Engineer" Yihye Ayyash, and to witness the burning of Israeli buses in effigy at public rallies sponsored by the PA is to realize that the Covenant's call for Israel's destruction is not a dead letter.

Is there hope for the Oslo Agreements? A year ago, President Ezer Weizman asked Arafat to declare in Arabic that the armed struggle is over. It is what Egyptian President Anwar Sadat did when he chose the path of peace. Arafat has yet to do so.

The path of peace is what Oslo is about. It is a decision to compromise rather than wage war, a decision to which the Netanyahu government is fully committed. When the Palestinians were faced with a similar decision 50 years ago, they chose war. The result was "the catastrophe," and a half-century of untold suffering for the Palestinian people.

Whether Oslo survives is up to them. If they see it, as Arafat repeatedly says, as part of their 1974 Plan of Stages for the destruction of Israel — a temporary accompaniment to the armed struggle aimed at lulling and weakening Israel — the suffering will continue. If they comply with their commitments to renounce violence and combat terrorism, the process can bring the peace and prosperity they could have had 50 years ago.

It is time for American newspapers to clearly call perpetrators of mass murder committed by homicidal sociopaths by the accurate term "terrorists."

— Robert Jacobson, Durham, NC

Israel has to do more than come up with travel slogans. It needs to restructure its approach to bringing people into the country. As Christians now seem to be the mainstay of the Israeli economy, Israel should expand its marketing to these groups. It should send emissaries to them and perhaps rethink the ones sent to Jewish communities as the Diaspora has, for the most part, become an observer and not a participant in the economy of Israel. — Howard Wolle, Toronto

As one of the leading agencies taking tourists to Israel, we want to congratulate those Believers who have not abandoned the Holy Land during a tough time for Israel. — Zola

Home Diagnosis for Heart Attacks

Source: Israel Today

TeleMarker, a system developed by the Israeli company SHL Telemedicine, provides a quick diagnosis of heart attacks for an individual experiencing chest pain. Using TeleMarker, the results of a simple blood test are sent by telephone data communications to a medical observation center accessible to users of the device.

The system analyzes the three most important diagnostic parameters: abnormal changes in the ECG, symptoms of an approaching heart attack, and evaluation of increased heart rates. Twenty minutes later, test results allow quick diagnosis of a genuine heart attack, thereby avoiding unnecessary hospital costs for a "false alarm." The TeleMarker has already received approval from European health authorities. For more information, see www.shahal.co.il.

Things Go Better with Coke

Source: Israel Today

The Israeli Coca-Cola manufacturer is moving from Bnei Brak near Tel Aviv to the southern Mediterranean port city of Ashkelon, which borders on the Gaza Strip. Attributed partially to a promise by Prime Minister Ariel Sharon to Ashkelon Mayor Shabtai Tzur, the plant's relocation should help revive Ashkelon's economy.

Like people all over the world, Israelis love Coke.

The State of the Levitt Letter, 2004

By Duncan Long, Editor

I took over editing the Levitt Letter just a little less than a year ago. During this time, I have been amazed at how efficiently, generously, and frugally Zola Levitt Ministries operates. Everyone in this ministry is there to help, and the organization regularly gives money to those in need in Israel as well as here in the US. It is truly amazing, and if ever there were a Christian ministry that could serve as a model for other such organizations, this is it.

One of my big problems in starting this job was relaxing enough to actually converse with Zola. Having Moses or Elijah on the phone with me would not have been much more intimidating. This is not because Zola is gruff or unfriendly — he is one of the kindest, friendliest persons I've ever talked to. But when I converse with him, I never have any doubts that I'm in the presence of a real man of God who's doing all he can to obey the Lord's command to "feed My sheep" (John 21:17). Speaking to him now is no longer tense, but I continue to feel somewhat like a scribe in the presence of a New Testament Apostle.

I quickly discovered that Zola is a powerhouse and that it's hard for those around him to keep up with his pace. For example, this issue of the Levitt Letter was started with Zola choosing articles to go in it via phone and e-mail from Israel during his fall tour there. Then, when most of us would be nursing jet lag, he continued to work — sometimes from airports via cellphone — after he returned to the US.

Hardly pausing as he got situated back at home, he sorted out the majority of the articles and cartoons for this Levitt Letter (and also taped a show "on the side"). And, as I write this, we're finishing this issue while he's on the road, headed for Florida to speak at churches and conduct his tours in Orlando. Faxes, e-mail, our FTP site, and various phones operated, quite literally from around the world, have all had a workout.

Another surprise when I came on board with ZLM was Zola's mode of travel when touring the US. In an age when too many televangelists live lifestyles that are hard to distinguish from those of politicians or rock stars, Zola's mode of travel is different.

No money is spent on Lear jets, limos, or even first class plane rides. No, this guy and his wife hitch up a trailer to their pickup truck, and take to the roads on their own. They don't squander the Lord's money.

When I first put on the editor's hat, the 16-page issue was more or less the norm for this newsletter with only an occasional "double-issue" making an appearance from time to time. Initially, my fear was that we might be short of material to fill out an issue.

I don't have that worry any more. Now, the double-issue, despite everyone's intentions to use it sparingly, has become more or less the norm, at least for 2003 (and this trend continues with this first issue of 2004). The reason? Simply that there has been a wealth of stories to choose from over the last year.

These stories also point to the fact that Bible prophecies and today's news are rapidly becoming one and the same. These are times in which, as you read the Levitt Letter, it's important to remember our Lord's admonition, "When these things begin to happen, look up and lift up your heads, because your redemption draws near" (Luke 21:28).

I want to close with the observation that ZLM has recently taken a truly amazing step toward reaching even more people with the Good News of the Gospel by buying airtime on the PAX network. I'm hoping everyone who can, will give to this ministry that I've so recently become a part of. I also hope that each giver will keep in mind the frugal stewardship shown by Zola as he helps bring the Gospel "before Gentiles, kings, and the children of Israel" (Acts 9:15). ★

The cartoonist above makes the same error as the president. — Zola

Many evangelical Christians in the US say they are outraged over President George Bush's statement that Christians and Muslims worship the same God. A reporter noted that Bush has frequently expressed the view that freedom is a gift from "the Almighty," but questioned whether Bush believes "Muslims worship the same Almighty" as the president and other Christians do. Bush replied, "I believe we worship the same God." — WorldNetDaily.com It will interest the Israelis, as well as the Christian believers, to know we have been praying to the Muslim god all this time. — Zola
