If the American threat of preemptive military action against Iraq inflamed the Muslim world over the winter, the war itself fanned the flames, with a sharp new rise in hostility toward the United States, the latest Pew survey has found.

Animosity is so high that solid majorities in five populations surveyed expressed confidence in Osama bin Laden to “do the right thing” in world affairs.

And, at a time when the Israeli government has accepted the right of Palestinians to statehood, most Muslim populations surveyed believe by wide margins that the needs of Palestinians cannot be met so long as the state of Israel exists.

The poll, conducted by the Pew Global Attitudes Project, surveyed more than 15,000 people in May. Muslim populations included were Indonesia, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Morocco, Nigeria, Pakistan, the Palestinian Authority, and Turkey.

The survey shows that negative attitudes among Muslims toward the United States have soared anew since the war, both in the Middle East and beyond.

Anti-Americanism peaked in Jordan, where 99 percent of the people now

This article contains some of the most amazing statements I’ve ever read. The proposition given at the top of page 4 is exactly what our ministry believes, and if it is theological ignorance, I would like to hear the correct theology. The idea that Muslims are incapable of democracy is proved by the fact that out of 1.2 billion Muslims in the world, not one is living in a Muslim democracy. There simply aren’t any. —Zola

Arab Democracy?

By William Pfaff, The International Herald Tribune

The Bush administration’s plans for a new world rest on the progressive theory that mankind’s ultimate and natural condition is universal democracy. Preemptive action against rogue regimes, such as Iraq, merely removes obstacles to the common destiny.

There is, however, an important ideological clash behind this within the Republican Party right, and within conservative intellectual circles.

Champions of Faith

TV Series: 3 Videocassettes, Music CD, and Audocassette

An insightful look at the heroes of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. "Without faith it is impossible to please God, because anyone who comes to Him must believe that He exists and that He rewards those who earnestly seek Him" (Hebrews 11:6).

Shot on location in Israel and inspired by the "Faith Hall of Fame," this 11-program television series explores not only the characters, but teaches unique aspects of their testimony to give us insight into, and instruction about, the development of faith. Modern-day believers, both Jewish and Gentile, are interviewed and give witness to a faith that builds the foundation for lives that overcome in spite of adversity and which are also overcoming lives.

Worship — Abel. The program begins with Zola's overview of Hebrews 11, studying faith as reflected in the characters of this great chapter. The first character in our Champions of Faith series is Abel. We study his worship and "right" sacrifice to the Lord. Believers from a Messianic congregation in Israel discuss how worship has influenced their walk of faith.

Relationship — Enoch. The life and translation of Enoch is the second lesson in our in-depth look at faith. One of only two men in the Bible who did not experience death, Enoch's life shows how faith establishes and deepens our relationship with God.

Work — Noah. Zola teaches about the days of Noah and his faithful work over 99 years while building an ark for the salvation of his household. As Noah's life illustrates, service and work are the best examples of faith.

Acceptance — Abraham & Sarah. While the history of Abraham and Sarah are well known, Zola examines the aspect of their faith that enabled them to accept the unbelievable promises of God. Present-day believers discuss their sacrificial faith in the face of adversity.

Blessing — Isaac. The fifth program examines Isaac, the son of Abraham. The faith of Isaac testifies to being certain of what we do not see — things hoped for. Zola discusses the meaning of an inheritance from the Lord that He has given to the priesthood of believers.

Endurance — Moses. From the wilderness location of Wadi Kelt in the Judean Desert, Zola speaks on the great deliverer Moses. Inspired by hope in God's promises, modern-day believers tell of endurance and strength supplied by the Perfector of our faith.

Belief — Joshua & Rahab. Zola looks at how the lives of Joshua and Rahab show a special knowledge of, and faith in, the power of the living God. An interview with a survivor of the Holocaust gives testimony to the faith and belief that enable God's people.

Courage — Gideon & David. Courage shown through the lives of the heroes Gideon and David is our focus in this segment. With the Lord as helper and shield, a modern-day couple discusses how they have courageously dealt with overwhelming circumstances.

Suffering — Paul. Suffering puts faith to the test. Zola teaches with fresh insight about the life and trials of Paul, showing parallels with the life of Christ — the Suffering Servant. Believers give testimony as to how the Lord has enabled them to overcome an uncertain future through faith.

Martyrdom — Stephen. On location overlooking Jerusalem, Zola examines the life of Stephen, the first martyr. From the Crusades to the Holocaust and the current persecution of Christians in Third World countries, the cost of being one of God's chosen is discussed.

Music Video Program. Beautiful footage of the Holy Land accompanied by Zola's music, especially composed for the Champions of Faith series, creates the perfect background for the heroes of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews.

Imagine music that brings to life mainstay Bible characters such as Abel, Enoch, and Noah. Get ready to exclaim "Praise God!" and become a champion of faith as you listen to songs including "The Great I Am," "A Night with Abraham," and "Righteous Gentile."

have a somewhat or very unfavorable opinion of the United States, up from 75 percent last summer, the survey found. Hostility was also extremely high in the Palestinian Authority (98 percent).

More than eight out of 10 in Turkey and Pakistan questioned since the war have a negative view of the United States, as do seven out of 10 in Lebanon, and two-thirds in Morocco. The most extreme shift was seen in Indonesia, where 61 percent had a favorable opinion last summer but now only 15 percent do.

Steven Simon, an analyst of Muslim affairs with the Rand Corporation, said the about-face in Indonesia could be explained by “a rising sense of Islamic identity of a kind that is new” for that country.

Part of this new self-perception, he said, is tied to the return of people who went through the Islamic fundamentalist camps in Afghanistan and became radicalized there.

As for the spike in hostility in Jordan, he said, the war in Iraq was “colossally unpopular” there and heightened the resentment of the country’s largely Palestinian population, who already saw US policies in the Middle East as “helping to perpetuate a situation that is grossly unfair to Palestinians.”

Even in Nigeria, traditionally a friend of the United States, favorable opinion sank to 61 percent after the war from 77 percent last summer.

Several Muslim populations also express strong dislike of Americans as people. Nine out of 10 Palestinians, eight out of 10 Jordanians, and 60 percent of Turks say they feel somewhat or very unfavorable toward Americans. The rise is sharpest in Jordan, where fewer than half had a negative view last summer.

Distrust today blazes so brightly that majorities in seven of eight Muslim populations surveyed—Turkey, Indonesia, Nigeria, Pakistan, Lebanon, Jordan, and Kuwait—expressed fears that the United States could become a military threat to their country.

In Morocco, 79 percent said they felt Islam was under serious threat today, and people in other countries largely agreed, in many cases far more strongly than last summer. In Pakistan, for example, 64 percent now say Islam is seriously threatened, up from 28 percent in summer 2002. The threat is perceived most sharply in Jordan, by 97 percent, up from 81 percent last summer.

Perhaps as a consequence, bin Laden was one of the three “leaders” most trusted by the nine Muslim populations surveyed, outranking even the UN secretary-general, Kofi Annan. The Qaeda leader’s confidence rating was matched only by Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, and Crown Prince Abdullah of Saudi Arabia.

As for the crisis in the Middle East, in a wave of sentiment that bodes ill for the future of the US-sponsored “road map” to peace, Muslims lined up strongly behind the opinion that “the rights and needs of the Palestinian people cannot be taken care of as long as the state of Israel exists.”

The conviction that no way can be found for Israel and the Palestinians to coexist is strongest in Morocco (90 percent), followed by Jordan (85 percent), the Palestinian Authority (80 percent), Kuwait (72 percent), Lebanon (65 percent), Indonesia (58 percent), and Pakistan (57 percent).

Overall, Muslim populations see US policies as destabilizing the Middle East, as do pluralities in many other countries surveyed. Nearly 50 percent take this view in France and Spain, as do 63 percent in Morocco, 74 percent in Indonesia, and 91 percent in Jordan.

Regarding the US-led war, disappointment was widespread among Muslims that Iraq put up so little resistance. More than 70 percent shared this view in Turkey, Indonesia, Pakistan, Lebanon, Jordan, Morocco, and the Palestinian Authority. The notable exception was Kuwait, which was invaded by Iraq in 1990, and where 61 percent said they were happy Iraq did not put up much of a fight.

Despite the animosity toward America, the survey found “a considerable appetite in the Muslim world for political freedoms,” the Pew report says.

A considerable part of the Christian fundamentalist community in the United States has by now convinced itself that Islam represents evil, and that US war with the Islamic world is part of the biblical plan.

This bigoted, theologically ignorant and dangerous idea has a sophisticated counterpart in the widely circulated proposition that Muslims are incapable of democracy.

Samuel Huntington's mischievous argument that the "next world war" will be a clash of civilizations included an assertion that Muslims are peculiarly and uniquely given to violence.

The scholar Bernard Lewis' best-selling book on Islam and modern history, What Went Wrong, ends on a "with us or against us" note that contributes to an intellectual climate of Islamic-Western confrontation.

There is a pragmatic challenge to this idea in an article by Larry Diamond of the Hoover Institution that appears in the latest issue of the Washington-based journal Policy Review, titled "Universal Democracy?"

While democracy is indeed absent from the 16 Arab Middle Eastern countries, Diamond writes, this is not true for the world's 27 other Muslim-majority nations, whose record on democratic development differs little from the international average.

His explanation is politically convincing. Since 1948, the Palestinian-Israeli conflict has become a paralyzing political obsession in the Arab world. It has generated "a powerful symbolic struggle over Arab identity and dignity. Until the fog of this struggle is lifted," Diamond writes, "genuine and lasting democratization will be unlikely in the region." ★

As you can see from the chart below, Israel is the only free country in the Middle East. Other Muslim nations that border this region (not given on the chart) include Algeria, Tunis, Ethiopia, Nigeria, Morocco, Afghanistan, and Pakistan. But adding these doesn't help. None of these are free, either. They may be called "Islamic Republics" or "Constitutional Monarchies" but it is all formalities. They are police states. In each case, one man basically owns all the people and all the land. — Zola

NewsBriefs

This article covers something that happens on a constant basis, yet is never reported by the American press. Battles between Palestinian clans, the murders of collaborators, and the hanging of bodies from lampposts are all ignored. Arafat himself is not only an embezzler but also a mass murderer who has killed thousands of his own people, as well as Israelis over the years. It is common knowledge in Israel that this goes on, but the world press covers it up. —Zola

Arab Vs. Arab

One Palestinian was killed and more than 30 were wounded in clashes between two Palestinian clans in the Hebron marketplace Wednesday.

A mob of more than 1,000 Palestinians destroyed cars and stores and fired shots at each other. Calm was restored by the Israel Defense Forces deployed in the area.

The incident was sparked by a dispute between two stall owners from the Jabari and Nirouch clans, and resulted in the death of a Jabari family member after he was hit on the head with a stone by a stall owner from the Nirouch clan.

Jabari family members went on a rampage and the fight spread to other parts of the city. Palestinian claims that soldiers did not intervene were refuted by the IDF.

Jewish settlements, despite 55 years of propaganda to the contrary, are no obstacle to peace, at least according to thinking Americans. Most US Citizens are pro-settler. —Zola

Most Americans Pro-Settler

Just 10 percent of Americans see settlements as the main obstacle to peace between Israelis and Palestinians, and a majority say Jews should be permitted to continue living and building in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, according to a survey commissioned by the Zionist Organization of America.

The survey of 1,000 adults, which was carried out on May 21 by John McLaughlin & Associates, found that 64% oppose expelling Jews from the territories, compared to 16.5% in favor of expulsion. A greater proportion of respondents, 31.3%, said that Jews have the “strongest historical claim” to Judea, Samaria, and the Gaza Strip, compared to 18.8% who said they favor Arab claims. (The survey has a margin of error of 3.5 percent.)

TV's Slavery to Visuals

Television emphasizes visuals over substance, which encourages facile treatment of issues. When NBC's correspondent in Israel was asked why reporters turned up at Palestinian demonstrations in the West Bank that they knew were being staged, he said, “Because we need the pictures.” The networks can't get newsworthy photos from countries like Syria, Saudi Arabia, Iran, or Libya.

Even non-idiots will appreciate the value of this completely user-friendly guide with seven relevant sections and twenty-nine extensively subcategorized chapters. Casual readers will gravitate to text boxes entitled “Hieroglyphics,” “Sage Sayings,” “Mysteries of the Desert,” “Caution — Tut Tut!” and “Ask the Sphinx.” Speed-readers will adore the chapter summaries entitled, “The Least You Need to Know,” not to mention the index and “Timeline of Middle East History.” This page-turner may not transform you into a scholar on the Middle East, but you probably will seem like one.

This picture, in which the settlement of Anatot which we support can be seen in the distant upper right, demonstrates that settlements are no obstacle to peace. They are typically surrounded by empty, uncultivated land and are the only green spots in an otherwise hopeless wilderness. These comprise the informal Israeli border with the West bank often referred to as “The Green Line.” The rainbow promises ultimate peace.

Israel Bonds

Prime Minister Ariel Sharon declared, "Purchasing an Israel bond shows your solidarity and helps finance the future of the Jewish State. More than just a good investment, it allows us to invest in critical infrastructure projects." By investing in a bond, you become a partner in building what is truly God's country. Sharon adds, "It is not just a financial transaction, but a pledge of devotion. I call upon you, at this critical hour, to buy an Israel bond and come here to visit and see the wonderful fruits of your investment." ## "Don't Put Your Soul On Hold"

In its first major campaign since September 2000, the Israeli Ministry of Tourism is reaching out to evangelical Christians, hoping to bring in more than a million international visitors to Israel this year. Tourism Minister Benny Elon said visits from Christian groups kept Israel's tourism industry from collapsing in the wake of years of conflict. "They were not afraid," he said. "They saved the industry." Officials said Christians coming as part of groups and missions made up about a third of the 900,000 visitors the county had in 2002. The $500,000 ad campaign's central theme is, "Don't put your soul on hold." — Deepti Hajela, AP.

World-wide Demonstration Against Road Map

WOMEN IN GREEN in Israel and abroad are enthusiastically joining in a world-wide demonstration of grassroots movements, both Christians and Jews, to be held in many communities throughout the world on Sunday, July 20, 2003.

The following cities have committed to holding demonstrations on that day: Copenhagen, Toronto, Surrey, Johannesburg, Chicago, New York, Atlanta, Denver, San Francisco, Miami, Baltimore/Washington, Dallas, Columbus, Portland, Philadelphia, and Jerusalem. Additional cities and communities can be added to this growing list.

In Jerusalem, we shall be holding the demonstration outside of the office of the Prime Minister, at the Rose Garden, at 9:30 a.m. At 10:15 a.m. we will then march to the Office of the Foreign Ministry, where we shall continue our demonstration.

The Road Map is a disaster for Israel. It rewards terrorism. The Arabs who have fostered suicide bombings and other forms of terrorist activity would be unjustly receiving a state within Historical and Biblical Israel. The Road Map would destroy the Jewish State of Israel. It is contra to, and defies the Word of G-d. The Bible promises, that all who promote the principles and contents of the Road Map, shall be cursed.

Dear Friends:

I recently was talking with Hal Lindsey and jokingly remarked that his hair has gotten very white. He pointed out that my beard was also white. And then I asked, "How about behind us—are there any younger men teaching End Times prophecy?" We talked about that.

The answer seems to be "no," and the reason is that the seminaries, since about 1985 or so, have offered only End Times teaching that is very muddled and unclear so that students are not as informed as they once were. Progressive Dispensationalism is a disease like cancer that only gets worse. It's next to impossible for pastors who graduated within the past twenty years to coherently relate to the Bible and explain what is happening in this world. Seemingly there are almost no teachers like Hal or me stepping out behind us and it's just getting worse all the time.

His answer is the fascinating part of this story. He looked at me and said, "Maybe there just doesn't need to be." In other words, there will be no need for anyone to teach End Times prophecy once the Tribulation starts. We're "The Last of the Mohicans."

Maybe another one of those signs of the End?

Meanwhile there are serious objections among believers to the Road Map. Christians everywhere are appalled at what the State Department and White House are trying to do in Israel. It is absolute Scriptural anathema to divide the Land, and that needs to be said loud and clear. The fact that the Palestinians are in no way ready for peace (or have even asked for it) is obvious.

Lives are being lost, terrorism has doubled and tripled, and President Bush, Colin Powell, and our other people are being made to look foolish as they demonstrate their inability to cope with the Palestinian situation. At the same time Iraq is proving to be an irascible problem. We simply do not understand people who, in effect, live in a time a thousand years ago and have no appreciation for democracy or freedom—or for that matter for people being kind or trying to help them.

A Note From Zola

Anyone who has ministered to people who have been abused or downtrodden in any way realizes that they have an odd adversity to being helped and are difficult to work with.

In Branson, Missouri, on our Midwest trip, I spoke at The Hiding Place, a wonderful, spiritual restaurant in the middle of the city which (behind the scenes) takes care of abused women and children. When I remarked from the speaker's podium that abused people object to being helped, I received some very sobering nods from the staff.

In my own experience of serving lunches in a soup kitchen and supporting the Ruff House, a home for retarded children, I noticed the resentment of underdogs receiving help. They have an odd fraternity of suffering to which more secure people are not really welcome.

Arab people have been downtrodden not just for decades but for centuries under the heels of uncaring dictators who have made themselves wealthy at the expense of huge populations. Saudi Arabia is a perfect example. Iraq, of course, is another, as are virtually all the Arab states which are variations on the same theme. (See page 4 where the Reader's Digest comparison of Middle Eastern nations shows that only Israel is free.)

When we try to help these people, their first reaction is to lash back at us as in Iraq or Afghanistan. Admittedly in the end we can succeed. After World War II we helped Japan and Germany to make the long step from fanaticism to become progressive democracies with free enterprise. Both societies recovered very well and are functioning, free-world nations today.

But the Germans and the Japanese were very cultured peoples living in the 20th century. However misguided they had been in regard to dictatorial leadership, they recovered relatively quickly because they had some grasp of goodness, honesty, and liberty. The Arabs have no knowledge of any of these and don't act as if they care to learn.

While the media rants on about fatalities in Israel, it doesn't admit that the American army is taking two and three times the casualties in Iraq, even though the terrorism has increased in the Holy Land.

Letters to Zola

Zola:

Why do so many Christian teachers somehow believe Bush is a real Christian? Hal Lindsey, whom I otherwise respect, seems likewise blinded by the truth of Bush and his ulterior intentions. The Lord is coming soon, and I pray that the Church wakes up and discovers the truth of the man who claims he is one of their own, but who is in derision of the truth of Jesus by his constant compromises and outright deceptions. — JJ

Dear JJ:

Bush is a United Methodist and his church supports the Palestinians. The problem with Replacement Theology is that one loses his appreciation for the Promised Land and the Chosen People. I have always considered denominational churches like the Methodists to simply be well-intentioned but ignorant, not cultic as some Christians in error are. They imagine they are helping the underdog (the Palestinians) and thus feel they are doing the right thing. —Zola

To Staff:

Zola Levitt's TV show Monday morning was wonderful. I've never heard anyone talk about the Jewish Festivals being a shadow of things to come. They really are. —BE

Dear BE:

I've been teaching elementary Christianity for thirty years to churches (and seminaries) which have little interest and knowledge of Israel and its people. I have been thanked graciously (as you have done) so many times for what should be common knowledge among believers. — Zola

Sometime in the 70s at the place I worked, I found in a locker of a person that had quit, a newspaper called Mohammed Speaks. The Muslims in this paper said they wanted, if I remember correctly, three states out of the United States to run all on their own, and for all the non-Muslim people who they thought of as devils to leave them alone. We would be better off if the President would do this than to interfere with God's chosen people, Israel's promised land. If the President is a Christian, what is he thinking? Zola:

Out of all the Christian programs on television, my wife and I have learned more from you than anyone else! You have an excellent program and website. We really enjoy them both. The television networks have flooded the airwaves with garbage and filth. And even with 62 channels, we're at a loss to find something decent to watch. We very much look forward to your program on Friday nights, although we wish you were on the air for an hour instead of a half hour. But we'll take what we can get!

Once again, thank you for the great job that you're doing. As soon as my wife recovers from surgery and we're back on our feet financially, we'll try to send something to support your ministry.

God Bless! — C&N

Zola:

I'm writing a short note to inform you and also our brother Christians that anti-Semitism is still alive today. Maybe it was a small thing, but it shows the hate in some people's hearts for the Jewish people. I bought a "Pray for the Peace of Jerusalem" sticker from you and put it on the bumper of my truck. I had not been driving around very many days when I came out of work and found someone had tried to rip it off my bumper!

For no reason, they took the time and effort to rip it off just to make a statement against Israel. A small incident? Maybe. But please, brothers and sisters in Christ, I urge you to support the Jewish people, especially now when the phony “peace process” is going on.

Someday all Israel will recognize their Messiah is the Lord and He will give Israel peace and prosperity and will put Israel first. In the meantime, we need to support Israel by telling the truth and sticking up for the olive tree that we were grafted into!

By the way, I am going to order several bumper stickers and every time one gets torn off, I’m putting another one on. The Lord bless you at Zola Levitt Ministries.

Dear PM:

Welcome to our ministry—we’re quite used to this.
—Zola

Dear Zola:

I’d like to say I really enjoy Zola’s program. I catch it on TBN early in the morning. Today he was talking with a former terrorist. Zola made a statement that left me feeling very unsettled. He said that the Mormons have their own Bible. This is not true. I pray that Zola will take the time to research this so that further misinformation will be prevented. —C

Dear C:

All I know is that the Book of Mormon sits beside the Bible in every Marriott Hotel where I’ve ever stayed. I tried reading the thing, but I would say that the Bible is much simpler and more to the point. —Zola

Dear Zola:

I watched the latter part of your broadcast today on TBN where you interviewed Zachariah Anan, a former terrorist turned Christian. To say the least, I was touched by his testimony. What struck me was the price tag this man has paid to be a Christian, as he had stated that several attempts had been made to kill him because of his new-found faith. It encouraged me to not take for granted the grace that God has given me to live free as a Christian. I heard a similar testimony just six days ago when the pastor of my church said that he has recently led a Muslim to Christ. This person has been ostracized from his family, including his wife and children whom he dearly loves. He went to his former mosque and explained that he wanted to cut all ties to Islam. The members of his mosque beat and kicked him, but miraculously, God protected him so that he did not feel a thing.

I feel God is prompting me to see that this message gets out to other Muslims, as well as Christians and non-believers. I don’t know if this is God, but in my spirit I believe God is telling me to help put together a video on Islam and Christianity with testimonies by former Muslims like Zachariah Anan, Dr. Ergun Caner, etc. There are literally billions of Muslims empty inside, looking for answers for their eternal salvation and I believe that they should hear from their brethren that Jesus is the answer for the Muslim! What I would also like to add to the video is a Biblical foundations section with short teachings from the Bible on salvation and the Lordship of Christ. I am not of the means financially to undertake such a task on my own, but I believe that this is God’s will so He will provide the necessary finances to take the gospel to a growing, but also dying, Muslim population.

Your assistance in any way possible would be greatly appreciated.

Yours in Christ, —MB

Judeo-Christian-Islamic?

By Mark O'Keefe, Newhouse News Service

Leading Muslim organizations say it's time for Americans to stop using the phrase "Judeo-Christian" when describing the values and character that define the United States. Better choices, they say, are "Judeo-Christian-Islamic" or "Abrahamic," referring to Abraham, the patriarch held in common by the monotheistic big three religions.

The new language should be used "in all venues where we normally talk about Judeo-Christian values, starting with the media, academia, statements by politicians and comments made in churches, synagogues and other places," said Agha Saeed, founder and chairman of the American Muslim Alliance, a political group headquartered in Fremont, CA. "These are not just let's-make-you-feel-good words," Saeed said. "These are words that define how we're related to each other."

Others take offense, arguing that to alter the phrase "Judeo-Christian" is political correctness and revisionist history at its worst. "A lot of the ideas that underpin civil liberties come from Judeo-Christian theology," said the Rev. Ted Haggard of Colorado Springs, CO, president of the National Association of Evangelicals. "What the Islamic community needs to make are positive contributions to culture and society so we can include them."

Michael Cromartie, vice president of the Washington-based Ethics and Public Policy Center, said a "Judeo-Christian understanding of things like freedom of conscience and liberty" are embodied in the Constitution. "No offense intended," he said, "but Muslims weren't a part of that, even though they're part of the discussion now."

The movement to drop or change the ["Judeo-Christian"] phrase has some non-Muslim support, including the head of the National Council of Churches.

The Rev. Bob Edgar, general secretary of the council, which represents 36 Christian denominations, said he prefers "Abrahamic" to "Judeo-Christian-Islamic" because it "rolls off the tongue a little easier."

"The more inclusive we can be, the more committed we are to the founding fathers and mothers who struggled with the issue of respect for each other's religious faiths," Edgar said. ★

The Father's Correction

By John J. Parsons

Hebraic Insight

The Hebrew noun musar denotes fatherly correction intended to impart moral discipline and character development to a child. "Hear, my child, the musar of your father, and forsake not the torah of your mother" (Prov. 6:20). "My son, despise not the chastening (musar) of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction (tokhechah). For whom the Lord loves he corrects; even as a father the son in whom he delights" (Prov. 3:11; see also Heb.12:5-6).

Like a human father might correct a wayward child in order to develop responsible character within the child, so the Lord corrects His children in order to form His character within them. And just as a human father gives light and insight to the way of a child, so God's revelation (i.e., His laws and commandments) gives light for the way of Life. Correction, then, is the primary means by which God reveals both His character to us and our own characters to ourselves.... It is also the instrument that leads us to godly sorrow and repentance. God tests what is within our hearts (Deut. 8:2) and thereby reveals Himself as the salvation (yeshua) from our inner condition. By being broken, humbled, and corrected, we learn to rely on God's provision and begin to genuinely understand that "man does not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of the Lord" (Deut. 8:3). Correction from the Lord is ultimately "soul building," since it enables us to be partakers of His holiness — and is grounded in His love for us as our Heavenly Father (see Heb. 12:5-11).

I spoke recently to Joan Peters, author of From Time Immemorial, a marvelous best-seller detailing with fine, explicit research all the Arab lies about Israel, America, and so on. Miss Peters was gratified to hear me point out that our government is simultaneously taking down one police state while building up another. She was moved by that statement (although the rest of us, inured as we are by news accounts, take these things in stride).

The Road Map is a disastrous mistake. It is a tragedy. It has prompted us to tape a new series, which we started during our June tour, called "Road Map to Armageddon." The Road Map can lead the world to the most catastrophic war ever seen and can do so even though many of those involved have the best of intentions.

President Bush does not really mean to harm Israel, but he is a United Methodist, raised on Replacement Theology. That teaching has terrible consequences. The denominational Protestants, the Catholics, etc., do not understand the concept of a Promised Land and a Chosen People. And with the best of intentions, they interfere in the goings on in God's country and will inadvertently provoke the most disastrous End Times prophecies.

And only prayer can help because "It is written."

But we can at least support Israel, and one way you can do that is with us, if the Lord tarries, at our Feast of Trumpets/Israel Solidarity Day in Dallas at the Biblical Arts Center on September 27—the actual Feast of Trumpets! Contact Tony at (214) 696-9760 for more information.

Our fall Holy Land tour is scheduled a little later than usual. The Deluxe Tour of Israel will depart on November 2nd and will return on the 12th. Our Grand Petra Tour, visiting both Israel and Petra, will depart on the 2nd and return on the 16th. The Grand Athens Tour, cruising the Greek Isles and touring Israel, extends from October 29 through November 12. Finally, our Ultra-Grand Tour, with everything—the Greek Isles, Israel and Petra—will begin on October 29 and end on November 16. For more information or the confirmation of tour dates, check with Tony at (214) 696-9760 during business hours. You can also call 1-800-WONDERS (1-800-966-3377) anytime for a brochure on this or any of our other tours.

As always, pray for the peace of Jerusalem.

More Colorful Levitt Letters

Beginning with our May/June edition, we switched to the Christian-owned Finishing and Mailing Center in Dallas. Their high-volume, modern equipment enables us to have more full-color newsletter pages at a lower cost than before with a faster turn-around time. We praise God for their representative, Mike Viorin, who works tirelessly to maximize our production speed and quality.

World War IV might well be the invasion of Gog and Magog.—Zola

World War IV

By Joseph Farah, WorldNetDaily.com

The US is already fighting World War IV, says former Central Intelligence Agency Director James Woolsey, and the enemies are the Shiite fanatics who rule Iran and control Hezbollah, the Islamo-fascists who rule Syria and previously controlled Iraq, and the Wahhabi brand of Sunni Islamists who get their inspiration and funding from Saudi Arabia. Woolsey adds that while all three of these enemies hate each other and occasionally kill each other in wars and smaller skirmishes, they are fully capable of uniting against a common enemy and have—in this case, the United States of America.

All three members of this axis had attacked the United States repeatedly in different ways since at least 1979. The attacks became increasingly more dramatic because the enemy concluded, based on deductive reasoning, that the US was a paper tiger—unwilling to fight, or, at least, fight to win. They concluded the US just didn't have the stomach for it.

"In 1979, they took out hostages and we tied yellow ribbons around trees and launched an ineffective effort, crashing helicopters in the desert, to rescue them," explains Woolsey. "In 1983, they blew up our embassy and our Marine barracks in Beirut. What did we do? We left. Throughout much of the 1980s, various terrorist acts were committed against us. We would occasionally arrest a few small fry. There was one honorable exception—President Reagan's strike against Tripoli. But, generally speaking, we prosecuted individuals when we could—essentially we litigated—in response to the terrorist acts of the '80s."

The 1990s, mostly during the Clinton administration years, the US continued to overlook terrorist attacks on its interests—sometimes even covering them up rather than dealing with the forces responsible.

The force finally used against al-Qaida and the Taliban in Afghanistan and Saddam Hussein's regime in Iraq was a stark contrast to the US policies of the past. Woolsey believes they represented a real surprise to those who calculated that the US was a paper tiger.

The risk now, he suggests, is that we pack up and go home and pretend the war is over. It is not.

Iraq has been dealt with, but the other partner in the Islamo-fascist camp, Syria, remains a threat. Iran has many problems at home. The US must make those problems worse — largely through propaganda and support of the dissident student groups and jailed clerics who oppose the mullah regime.

"The third group, the Islamist Sunni, al-Qaida and the like-thinkers, are in many ways going to be the hardest to deal with," Woolsey says. "They are fueled by oil money from the Gulf, Saudi Arabia principally. They are wealthy in and of themselves. They are present in some 60 countries and they loathe us, like the Wahhabis, who are their first cousins. They are fanatically anti-Western, anti-modern, anti-Christian, anti-Jewish and anti-most-Muslims."

Woolsey projects this fourth world war is going to last decades, not years. But he is confident that we will win. The message the US and its allies have to send to the autocrats of the Middle East is this, he says: "We want you to realize that now, for the fourth time in 100 years, this country is on the march. And we are on the side of those whom you most fear — your own people."

And that, Woolsey says, is the recipe for winning World War IV. ■

Letters to the JERUSALEM POST

To the editor:

The idea of destroying one terrorist regime only to seek to create another terrorist regime seems like a bizarre foreign policy, yet that is precisely what the United States intends to do.

In the war on terrorism, defeating Iraq was a great blow for freedom. However, the terror capital of the world is located on the West Bank and Gaza Strip. There one can find every make, shape, and model of terrorist. It is the home of the suicide bomber. These people cheered September 11, Osama bin Laden, and Saddam Hussein. Yet the US, in conjunction with the UN and the EU, which opposed the war with Iraq, and Russia, which provided Iraq with much of the equipment used by the Iraqi army, now seeks to create another terrorist state for the so-called Palestinians.

To create this new state requires, according to Israel's prime minister, "painful concessions" from Israel. It seems that it is nothing more than a reward to suicide bombers for blowing up school buses and restaurants.

There will be real opportunity for peace when Arab schools begin teaching peaceful co-existence with Israel and basic principles of democracy. It will come when radio and television programs controlled by the Palestinian Authority are not inciting the populace to murder and mayhem. It will come when the preachers in the mosques call for peaceful co-existence. Until that time, this is nothing more than a charade at Israel's expense. —Ronald S. Cope, Chicago

Oy vey! This Road Map is a wish list impossible to fulfill, an unrealistic fiction. It only serves to build up international demands and expectations of Israel so that even if and when the Palestinians fail to stop their war against us, Israel will be blamed. Rather, Israel should have the courage to stand firm now.

The situation may be compared to a woman about to be raped, who is too timid or scared to even murmur "don't," let alone to fight back decisively before things get out of hand.

We should not let ourselves be intimidated and bamboozled into a vague and unconditional agreement; otherwise, this will surely turn out to be our "Munich." — Avi Sion, Geneva

To the People of Israel: Congratulations to a beautiful, innovative, creative, and gutsy country. You continue to impress us, and all those who admire you. Your existence is proof that one should never compromise one's own values to satisfy others. Stay strong, for you are truly a light unto all nations. — Martha, David, and Harry Cohen, Port Lee, NJ.

In the verdict handed down by US District Court Judge William Young against "shoe bomber," Richard Reid, the judge was quoted as saying: "Here in this court... you are not an enemy combatant. You are a terrorist. You are not a soldier in any war. To give you that reference, to call you a soldier, gives you far too much stature... And we do not negotiate with terrorists. We do not sign treaties with terrorists... We hunt them down one by one and bring them to justice... You are... a species of criminal guilty of multiple attempted murders."

Any Israeli judge having the temerity to make a similar statement upon sentencing, for instance, Marwan Barghouti — assuming he is even found guilty — not only would be severely reprimanded and disciplined, but (s)he would probably be disbarred for life for grievously insulting a freedom fighter and a future potential leader of our erstwhile peace partners. —Morris Karlin, Mercaz Shapira

Marwan Barghouti is a Palestinian who has many years of experience in murdering and directing the murder of Israeli civilians. He was arrested some time ago in an Israeli sweep and is enjoying a fair and lengthy trial. —Zola

Dear Zola:

With much love and respect, I must disagree with your suggestion to exempt Arab Americans from fighting enemy Arab countries. We are one nation out of many. If we carried your suggestion to its logical conclusion, our military would be solely Native American. Considering our American history, they might take umbrage to that. Freedom is not cheap. Why should only some pay to maintain it while all freely enjoy it? I say to Americans of any national background, "If you cannot wave our flag, sing our national anthem, and if necessary, fight our enemy — any enemy — you are just a freedom-loving visitor who does not know when it's time to go home." —BB

Dear BB:

The difference between Muslims and any other minority group in America, is that Islam wants to overthrow our government and take over our nation. —Zola

Zola:

Thank you for your ministry. We watch you on Sky Angel each week.

We especially enjoyed the April issue of the Levitt Letter. It is said that a picture is worth a thousand words. That is certainly the case concerning the picture of the young Israeli border guard carrying the cane of the elderly Arab gentleman and holding his hand, guiding him through the checkpoint. That picture is a "keeper"!

Thank you again for all you do for our Lord. — Mrs. RG

Zola:

I was deeply touched by the photograph of an Israeli border guard helping an infirm Arab gentleman through a difficult checkpoint. This is the bottom line of what the peace process is all about. I don't know how you go about getting this published on the front page of every newspaper in the United States, as well as those in Israel and Palestine—for that matter, around the world. Maybe posters could be printed and distributed. Would that be possible?

Thanks for your news from the Middle East and for your timely, thought-provoking articles. Keep up the information. God bless you. —EL

Zola:

I just wanted to inform you that the author of Idiot's Guide to the Mideast Conflict is the idiot. I threw the book in the garbage the day I got it. He insults Jesus and the Bible and I don't want a book like that in my house. He treats Mohammed as being as credible as Jesus or Moses and refers to Islam as yet another religion springing from Judaism when, in fact, it springs from Hell. His writing is inexcusable. I noticed at the front, in very small print, he admitted these were only his opinions and he wasn't responsible for what he'd written. Red flag?

Also, the last page has an ad for a book for Feng Shui, an occultist, New Age practice.

Just thought you should be aware since I'm sure it's easy for some bad stuff to slip through, but I believe books like this hurt your ministry. —JAB

Dear JAB:

We did find certain flaws in looking through this book, but we are not offering it as a scriptural study. It is a secular book available to the entire public in any book store, and as such is more fair to Israel than almost all others I have seen. Please try to allow a bit of leeway for the large society of unbelievers. —Zola

Zola:

I am writing to let you know how I've been feeling this past week. We have been sending you $60 a week to help God's people, the Jewish people. Well, Satan put in my mind the thought, "How do I know the money is going for them?" I have prayed for a sign so I would know what to do because I want to do what is right in the sight of God.

I saw your program on TV and that gave me my answer. I believe you're a just man doing God's work. Most importantly, I know all I need to do is send the money and God will do the rest. We are going out on faith as we send it because there are weeks we could use it, but we believe God needs it more in His work. Please forgive us for letting Satan make us doubt. Please pray for us and we'll continue to pray for you and your work.

Love and Prayers, —P&L

Dear P&L:

I can assure you, straightforwardly, that your gifts are well-spent at this ministry. I give to it myself. —Zola
